

Homes on Planet Etherea for Ethereans

By
Willard Van De Bogart

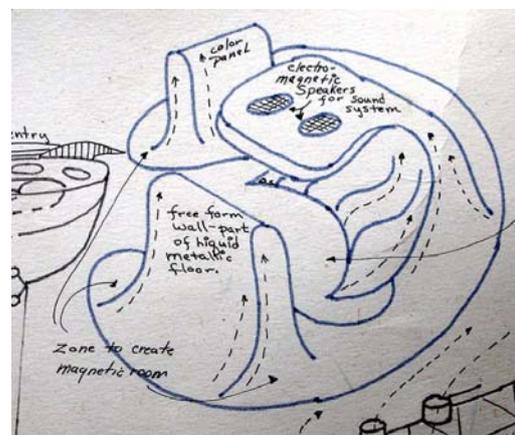

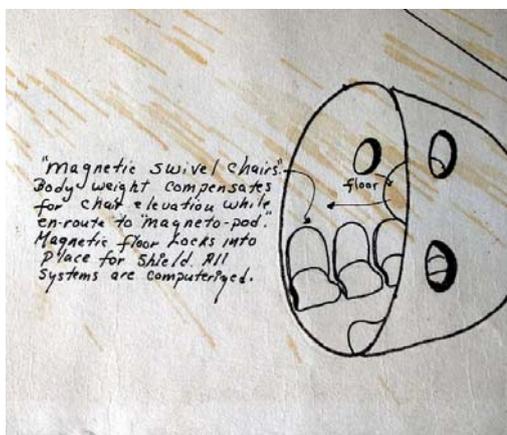

Magneto-pod home for space flight

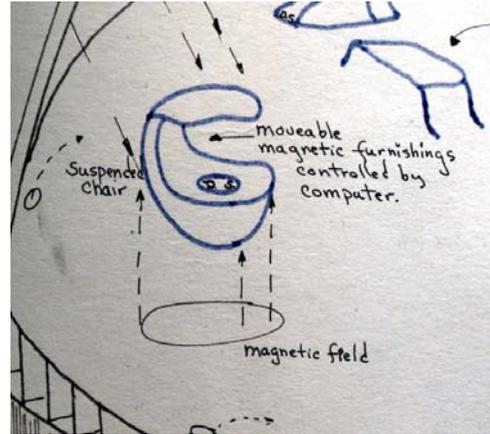

The planet Etherea has a very large magnetic field, which the Ethereans over many generations have learned to harness for every aspect of their existence. They have reached a point in their evolution whereby all the magnetic fields can be controlled by thought. The Ethereans are able to utilize the magnetic fields for their own personal shapes as shown.

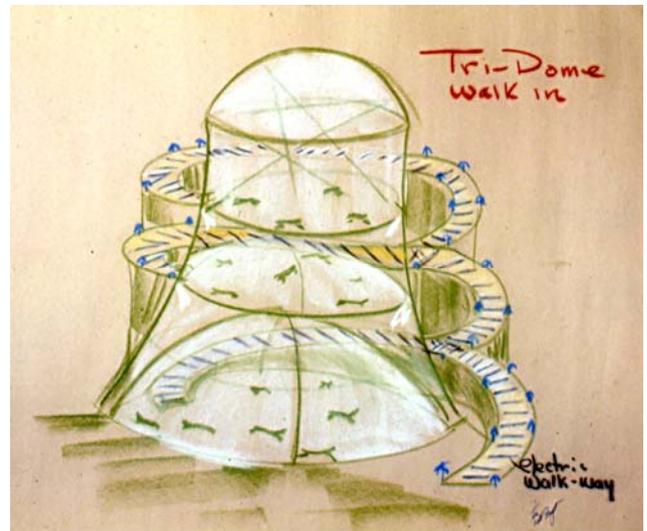

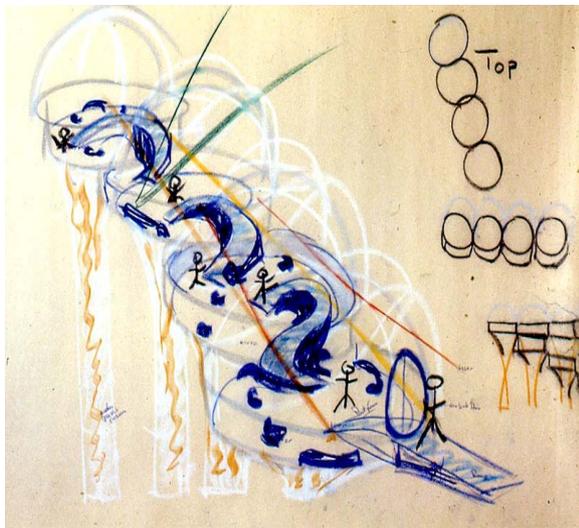

Living environments can look like glowing spheres or have colored effects associated with them. Any shape can be created by changing the magnetic fields within the magnetic sphere that the Ethereans use for transporting themselves in the universe.

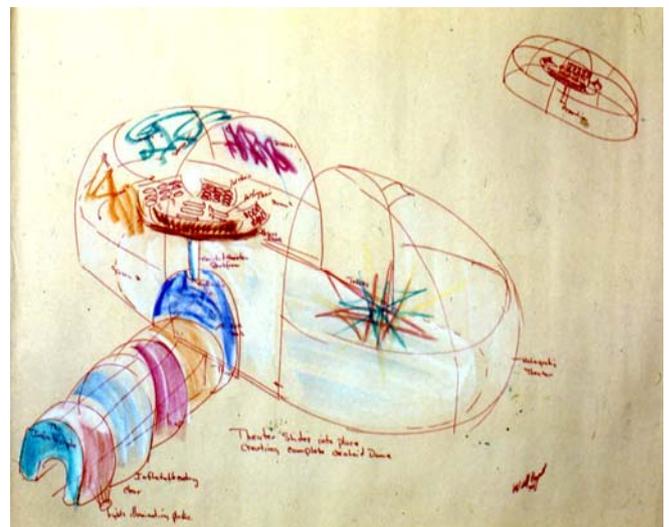

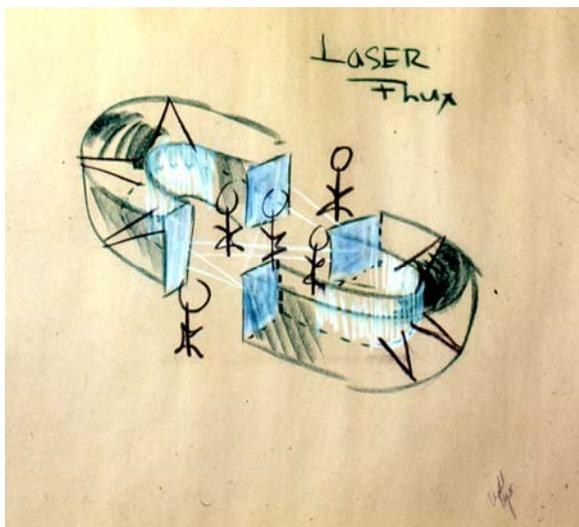

Detail of magneto pod living environment

The living environments are tubular in shape and have much larger shapes whereby many Ethereans can assemble and assume any shape they wish.

Magnetically generated homes on Etheria

Magnetically generated group environments on Etheria

